"It's not really about 'hardy plants' at all, since the interest of the Society covers virtually anything that relates to gardening. It's the members that are hardy, ardent, un-faltering plant lovers—novices and keenly knowledgeable enthusiasts alike—who will go anywhere for, and talk about nothing but, leafy green things, delighted to share their passion with fellow zealots."

The Hardy Plant Society/Mid-Atlantic Group is a 501(c)(3) organization for gardeners in the Mid-Atlantic region. We encourage gardeners—from beginners to professionals—to learn more about horticulture and to share their skills, knowledge, and plants with each other.

Members gather informally throughout the year to visit gardens and nurseries in the Mid-Atlantic region. We sponsor seminars and lectures about plants, ecology, design, propagation, and conservation. Our seed exchange offers thousands of seeds including tender perennials, annuals, woody plants, and unique seed strains. We host an all-day gardening symposium in the spring, featuring speakers and specialty vendors. We organize trips to nurseries that offer wholesale pricing to members, and we plan guided excursions to national and international destinations with an emphasis on visiting unique private gardens. We co-sponsor other events throughout the year with leading horticultural institutions in the area. HPS/MAG also supports horticultural research and educational programs through its Grants Program.
